

+ I had decided to do this thing very quietly
+ not tell a soul when Mrs Will Ingraham asked me right loud, why I did not send some of those things to you. - I'm over all alone as it made no difference + I confided to her the things I wanted when she said - "I would rather give you money to send with the things as you cannot get rubber boots + flannels just right." - So today she quietly handed me $5.00 to send you for flannels she said - "but she dear!" It is in bills + her idea was to put it in the box which we hope to get off next week. she says it is perfectly safe as I suppose it is + I hardly like to take it back + ask her to write a check for it - I don't want to have mother write a check for Grace's money + hardly know how to fix it - but if everybody says it is safe I will send in parcel. - Mr Lewis told me he had returned the check as I trust you have used it by this time. - We shall hope to send you all you spoke of but your own flannels which you would probably prefer to buy yourself Mr B's shirts + the boys hats - Mrs Will says not to answer your letter at once but it came just as I was starting for Worcester where I had some delightful experiences - which I will relate later after we have discussed the needlework question a bit - I was so much obliged to you for telling me just what you did need, it is so much more satisfactory & although it is only a letter still it will be some help to have those things attended to.

I do kiss in hair mass for you know that Mrs. Wood
